Volunteers are highly valued at VM2015 for Icelandic Horses

No sport event can be held without involvement from active volunteers; neither can the VM2015 for Icelandic Horses, in Herning, Denmark, which will involve up to 500 volunteers from many countries from August 3rd to 9th, 2015.

Although a sport event such as VM2015 for Icelandic Horses is a highly professional event and represented by professional equestrians and commercialists, it's still based on the shoulders of leisure riders and breeders. They are the people who have to make everything in Herning work as professionally and smoothly as possible using a part of their summer holiday in the name of the professionalism of Icelandic Horse riding and breeding.

An event like the VM2015 is normally in demand of up to 500 volunteers ahead, during and after the exciting, busy competition days, and fortunately volunteers are signing up in numbers for the summer event in these weeks.

There are many different tasks to be taken care of when the competitions are on the move; everything from assistance at the parking lot, at the entrance, cleaning up toilets and surroundings, security tasks in the stables, service tasks to judges, flag hoisting, presswork and feeding everybody in the canteen for volunteers.

VM2015 is a co-arrangement of the six Nordic Icelandic Horse Associations and volunteers and even more countries are signing up which makes the steering committee very grateful.

-The VM2015 in Herning will for sure be a living picture based on the idea of FEIF, (The International Federation of Icelandic Horse Associations) "bringing people together in their passion for the Icelandic horse", says Bo Hansen, Manager at VM2015.

The homepage vm2015.com will guide you if you would like to join VM2015 as a visitor or a volunteer. Hope to see you in Herning!
